Lesson G: Improving the Marine Soundscape

Assignment Option Three: Create Legislation or Run a Council Meeting

Throughout this lesson, you have explored the question: "How can improvements be made to the soundscape of marine mammals through action, legislation, and information?" Using what you know, or additional information from a variety of sources, decide on legislation, policy, or law that would cause change. You have two options:

In your group, you can run a 'council meeting' with different students playing different roles. You can present it as a stakeholder meeting with various interest groups represented by students in the group, or as a debate between groups on either side of the issue. OR

Individually, you may present a written piece of legislation that would cause change.

Be sure to answer the following questions in your meeting or legislation:

What specific behaviour do you want changed?

In what ways do you want the behaviour to change, and to whom does this apply? How will this change impact the population, and the issue you want addressed? How would the change in policy be enforced? How would enforcement be funded? Is there a penalty for non-compliance? What is it?

How would you inform people of change? Would you have a grace period or any 'grandfathering' (excluding a party from conforming to the changes because they have historically been allowed to do so)?

How and when would your new policy be assessed for success or failure? What measurements would you use for each?

How would you get people to support your policy change?

How would you address concerns of people against, or resistant to, your change?
