

Assessing your Information Exposure Risks

Obtain valuable insight into your current information exposure risks by answering the following questions:

1. What government data under your care is most critical and is sensitive information
2. Which data retention policies apply?
3. You and who else has the legal authority to use and/or share this information and why?
4. What legislation and policy is governing use of the information?
5. Where and how is this information being stored?
6. What controls are in place to protect it?
7. Which threats represent the greatest risk to safeguarding the government information in your custody?
8. Who else do you need to talk to regarding next steps?